If the municipalities accept a "Solar Ready" panel but not a 400A MLO, that's highly illogical and not according to Code. If they apply the 120% rule to an MLO panel, a 600A panel still isn't enough for you. Seems to me it's worth quite a lot of money to kindly, patiently explain what the code actually says. Z. Zee

I currently have 20 rec370 panels on iq7+ inverters (30.25a) and a 200a solar ready main panel with a 70a breaker on the solar. I am going to add 31 455w panels on iq7A inverters (44.95a) all will go to the same combiner box (still assuming that this will work with the single existing combiner with reworking the bridges)
